Engaging Remote Workers

How to engage newly remote workers in the time of COVID-19

The Novel Coronavirus (or COVID-19) is bringing on new challenges for HR leaders across the world. As many organizations are now faced with the task of moving to a remote-only environment for the foreseeable future, they wonder how they can continue to engage employees in an uncertain business environment.

In this snapshot, we'll cover:

- The Evolution of Remote Work — How employee expectations have changed over the last few years.

- The Inherent Struggles of Remote Work — Understand where employees struggle and how they are coping.

- How to Engage Remote Employees — The unique challenges that makes engaging remote employees different than in-person recognition.